SUMMARY

Product builder who designs community-driven experiences from scratch. Conducted 48 customer interviews, launched a coliving product from zero, and iterated based on real user feedback. I specialize in community platform products where trust and belonging are the core value proposition. My approach combines deep user empathy with rapid experimentation.

For Kindred: I build community products where trust is the core value — 48 customer interviews, 0-1 product launch, and rapid iteration from real user feedback.
